Environment Policy

Our resources won't last forever.
We must treat them with respect and responsibility in an ecological and economic sense

As a worldwide supplier of videoconference systems the sustainable protection of global resources is part of our own philosophy. By offering environmental friendly technologies ViDOFON AG contributes largely to a better world climate and to a conservation of our environment already today. Especially due to the deployment of global videoconferences a significant reduction of CO₂-emissions will be possible in the future. That way each company that we consult or supply makes its own contribution to protect our environment and global resources and at the same time gains a significant advantage in competition.

This opportunity does not free us from keeping our internal processes in an environmental sound manner. ViDOFON AG seeks to be an example for its customers and has submitted itself to an own code of conduct on environmental issues.

For example all meetings with our international team members are being held via video- or audio-conference. Furthermore important appointments at the customer site are being planned and managed deliberately to keep any burden on the environment to a minimum.

Plus, all employees are asked

- to match necessary appointments to the same regions in the same time-frames
- to manage any consulting and customer support first by videoconference or via other ways of communication
- to use environmentally friendly means of transportation such as railway

ViDOFON has stipulated for the whole company group the following goals in its commitment to protect the environment:

- Promote the awareness of all employees towards legal and regulatory obligations that help to protect the environment by a culture of open communication and internal instructions.
- Compliance with regulatory affairs on environmental issues and in case needed the creation of new own policies.
- Reduction of burdens on the environment in daily business.
- Reduction of (electronic) waste by using all means of recycling, environmental correct disposal and complete maintenance services.
